(within the German salary scale TVL) is available at the Institute of Experimental Immunology (IEI) (AG Veronika Lukacs-Kornek). The project will start as soon as possible and is determined for three years.

Description:
The stromal immunology laboratory lead by Prof. Dr. Lukacs-Kornek is currently seeking a technical assistant. The successful candidate will perform various tasks to support the laboratory staff and will contribute to a research project that focuses on the crosstalk between stromal and immune cells. Prof. Lukacs-Kornek’s team is focusing to determine the role and impact of stromal cells on immunoregulation during chronic inflammatory diseases and tumor development. We encourage all qualified candidates to apply.

The ideal candidate will be a highly motivated, team-oriented with a strong interest in research with attention to details.

Your tasks:
- Help with experiments requiring animal handling (mouse), injection, blood and organ taking
- Genotyping of transgenic animals
- Preparation of tissue sections for microscopy analyses
- Cell culture and flow cytometry analyses of primary stromal cells
- Contribute to the establishment of various 3D cell culture techniques for cross-talk analyses

Your skills:
- Good skills in animal handling and basic cell culture are prerequisites
- Any work with 3D cultures and microscopy are favorable
- Any other experience in above-mentioned techniques is advantageous

We offer:
- The salary will be according to the German salary scale TV-L
- A “Jobticket” (subsidized public transport) is available
- There is also a possibility to use the day care center
- Supplementary benefits in the public sector (pension plan according to VBL)

The UKB is committed to diversity and equal opportunity.
